We put your world on a super-computer, with a huge amount of speed and power. We keep the computer running all the time so you can play that world whenever you and your friends want. We protect your world from getting corrupted by saving it automatically all the time. You control who connects to the world. How you play with it is up to you (the server will do all the heavy lifting). Do my friends need to purchase a Realms subscription to play on my Realm? The people you invite (members) don't need to purchase a Realms subscription to play on your Realm. You can invite any Minecraft player to join and play in your Realm for free. What happens to the worlds on my Realm when my subscription expires? Your worlds are yours to keep. You have 18 months to download them to your device after your subscription expires. If you resubscribe within that time, you will regain access to your Realm just as you left it. How many worlds can I have on my Realm? You can store up to 3 worlds on your Realm at one time. Activate any one of them to make that world playable. Only one world is playable at a time. Get your Realms questions answered by visiting the Minecraft Support page. Yes, you can join Minecraft realms without a subscription and play for free. Can I play Minecraft realms for free? If you haven't already used it, you may be given the option to try a free 30-day trial of Realms. Realms trials aren't available on Nintendo Switch or Amazon Fire TV. When creating your Realm, you can either make a one-time purchase (with a set duration of days) or buy a recurring monthly subscription. How much does it cost to play Minecraft realms? You can purchase a Realms Java Edition subscription for a recurring monthly charge of $7.99 USD per month. You may also purchase a 30-day Realm for $9.99 USD or a 90-day Realm for $26.99 USD; however, these are one-time charges and are not available as part of a recurring subscription. Does realms require a subscription? Yes, Minecraft Realms and Realms Plus are subscription-based services that let you play Minecraft online with friends and family on your own personal server. They also give you access to a catalogue of Minecraft content, including skins, worlds, and resource packs. How long is realms free? We offer a free 30-day trial of Minecraft Realms to players who have not previously had a Realm and have signed up for a 10-user subscription. Is Minecraft Realms free for 30 days? Subscribing to Realms or Realms Plus will give you access to one Realm. If you have never purchased Realms Plus before, you can start a free trial for Realms Plus for 30 days. After your trial is over, you will be charged the appropriate subscription fee every month. How much is a 2 player realm per month? The basic Minecraft Realms for Bedrock Edition costs $3.99/€3.29 a month and allows you to invite two more players to gain access to your private online world. Who has to pay for realms? A realm subscription only has to be purchased by the owner of the realm, then anyone invited to the realm can play it as long as the subscription is up to date. How much is a one-time purchase realm? For a fee of $7.99 per month or a one-time payment for 30-, 90-, or 180-day plans, you can set up and host a private, always-online server for you and your friends. Only people you invite can play in your world, and your friends play for free in your realm. Why did Free Realms shut down? Free Realms shut down in 2014 along with three other SOE MMOs to devote resources to other games. The closure was due to the amount of time it required to maintain the code bases for updating authentication or security updates, and the resources were needed elsewhere. Does everyone need to buy realms? No, only one person needs a subscription to the Realm for all their friends to join in for free. What age is Free Realms for? Free Realms was intended for ages 7-12, but the set age minimum is inconsistent among online websites, implying the intended age groups are 8-12 or 9-12. What is the difference between Realms and Realms Plus? Realms is a personal server that allows you to play with up to two additional players, while Realms Plus is a personal server for up to 10 additional players and grants access to a catalog of Minecraft Marketplace content. Can you play Minecraft realms offline? You don't need to be online to enjoy Realms Plus. Packs included in the subscription can either be played online on your personal Realm or played on a local device. What is the Minecraft Realms subscription plan for 6 months? A 6-month subscription grants access to a curated catalog of 150+ Marketplace items, from community-made skin packs to hand-crafted worlds and mini-games. You can invite all of your friends to your Realm and play with up to 10 of them at a time. Your friends can access all of the content in your Realm! How long is the Minecraft free trial? The Minecraft free trial lasts for five in-game days or about 100 minutes in real-time. How much is the Minecraft trial? The Minecraft trial is free to download and play in Survival mode. Can Java and Bedrock play together? It is currently not possible for cross-play from Bedrock servers to Java clients. It is only possible for Bedrock clients to join Java servers. Do Minecraft Realms have a player limit? You and up to 10 friends can play together in a Minecraft Realm at one time. Your friends can access your Realm and all the content on it for free! How do I join a Java Realm? To join a Java Realm, select Play in Minecraft, then choose the Friends tab and select Join Realm. Enter the 6-digit invite code if you are on a console or use the invite link if you have received one. What year did Free Realms shut down? Free Realms shut down in 2014 along with three other SOE MMOs, as the company needed to devote resources to other games. How many realms are there? In Norse mythology, the universe is organized into nine realms, connected by Yggdrasil, the world tree. These realms include places for gods, humans, giants, and other beings. How do I play Minecraft with friends without Realms? You can play with friends without Realms by playing on a Local Area Network (LAN). Choose a host computer, launch the game, select Single Player, create a new world or open an existing one, press the Esc key and select Open to LAN, choose a game mode, and let your friends join the LAN game. Yes, technically you can play on Minecraft Realms for free, but with significant caveats. While you can't perpetually play Realms without any cost involved, free trials and the way Realm subscriptions function provide limited access to Realm gameplay without dipping into your wallet. Let's dive into the nitty-gritty details. The Realm of Free Access: Explained! The key to understanding free Realm access lies in two distinct areas: free trials and the subscription model itself. Let's break each of these down: Free Trials: Your Limited-Time Ticket Limited Availability: Mojang occasionally offers a free 30-day trial of either standard Realms or Realms Plus to new subscribers. This is a one-time offer, meaning if you've ever participated in a Realm trial before, you're ineligible for another one. The availability of these trials can fluctuate. Platform Restrictions: Notably, Realms trials are not universally available. For example, they are frequently unavailable on the Nintendo Switch or Amazon Fire TV. Check your platform's specific terms. Automatic Renewal: Be extremely cautious! These trials typically automatically convert into a recurring subscription once the 30 days are up. If you don't cancel before the trial ends, you'll be charged the monthly subscription fee. Set a reminder to cancel if you don't plan to continue the subscription. Riding on the Coattails of a Friend: The Subscription Advantage This is where things get interesting. The Minecraft Realm subscription model works in your favor if you have generous friends: One Subscription, Multiple Players: Only the Realm owner needs to pay for the subscription. Anyone they invite can play on the Realm completely free of charge, as long as the subscription is active. This holds true for both Java Edition and Bedrock Edition Realms. Shared Content (Realms Plus): If the Realm owner has a Realms Plus subscription, the invited players also gain access to the Minecraft Marketplace content included with the subscription, adding even more value to the free access. Friend's Online Requirement: Keep in mind, if you're playing on a non-Realm world hosted by a friend, you can only play while they are actively online and hosting the game. Realms offer the advantage of being online 24/7, regardless of the owner's presence. The Caveats: Understanding the Limitations While these free avenues exist, it's crucial to acknowledge the limitations: Dependency on Others: Relying on a friend's subscription means you are at their mercy. If they cancel their subscription, you lose access to the Realm. Trial Period is Finite: The 30-day trial is a one-shot deal. Enjoy it while it lasts, but don't expect to perpetually hop between trials. Platform Compatibility: Remember that Java and Bedrock versions of Minecraft are not cross-compatible for Realms. You can only play on a Realm that matches the game version you're using. (Although Bedrock clients can join Java servers.) In summary, while you can't play Minecraft Realms completely free forever, the free trial period and the generosity of a Realm owner offer legitimate opportunities to experience Realm gameplay without spending money. Just be mindful of the trial's terms and conditions, and cultivate friendships with individuals already hosting a thriving Realm community! Minecraft Realms: Frequently Asked Questions (FAQs) 1. How much does a Minecraft Realms subscription actually cost? The price varies depending on the Minecraft Edition (Java or Bedrock), the number of player slots, and whether it's a recurring subscription or a one-time purchase. Realms Java Edition: Usually $7.99 USD per month (recurring). Realms for Bedrock Edition (2 players): Around $3.99 USD per month. Realms Plus for Bedrock Edition (10 players): The price is around $7.99/month. One-Time Purchases: Some one-time purchases of realms may be: 30-day Realm for $9.99 USD or a 90-day Realm for $26.99 USD. Note that the prices are subject to change! 2. What's the difference between Minecraft Realms and Realms Plus? The main difference lies in player capacity and additional content. Realms: Supports a smaller number of players (typically 2 additional players for Bedrock and up to 10 additional players for Java edition). Realms Plus: Supports up to 10 additional players and includes access to a catalogue of Minecraft Marketplace content, such as skins, worlds, and resource packs. Realms Plus is the superior option if you desire to use marketplace content. 3. Do all players on a Realm need a Minecraft account? Absolutely! Every player who wants to join a Realm, regardless of whether they are the owner or an invited guest, needs a valid Minecraft account for the appropriate edition (Java or Bedrock). These accounts are tied to your game ownership and online identity. 4. Can I play on a Realm offline? While the Realm itself is always online, your access to it requires an internet connection. However, with Realms Plus, any Marketplace packs included in the subscription can be downloaded and used offline in single-player mode or on a local device, regardless of Realm access. 5. How do I join a Minecraft Realm? The process depends on whether you are on Java Edition or Bedrock Edition: Java Edition: In Minecraft, select Play, then the Friends tab, and choose Join Realm. Enter the 6-digit invite code provided by the Realm owner (found in the Share Link URL). Bedrock Edition: From the main menu, navigate to the Friends tab. You should see the available Realm listed if you've been invited. If not, you may need to enter the invite code or link provided by the Realm owner. 6. How do I create my own Minecraft Realm? Creating a Realm is straightforward: Minecraft Account & Purchase: Ensure you have a Minecraft account for the desired edition (Java or Bedrock) and purchase a Realms subscription. Initiate from within Minecraft: Launch Minecraft and navigate to the Realms section. You should see an option to Create a New Realm. Follow the prompts to configure your Realm's name, settings, and subscription type. Invite Friends: Once the Realm is created, invite your friends using their Minecraft usernames or invite links. 7. What happens if I cancel my Minecraft Realms subscription? If you cancel your subscription, the Realm will be deactivated. The world data is generally retained for a limited time. If you resubscribe within that period, you can reactivate your Realm and continue playing where you left off. However, if you wait too long, the world data might be permanently deleted. 8. Can Java and Bedrock players play on the same Realm? Unfortunately, Java Edition and Bedrock Edition Realms are not cross-compatible. You can only play with others who are using the same edition of Minecraft as you. 9. What are the alternatives to Minecraft Realms for playing with friends? Besides Realms, you can play with friends through the following methods: Local Area Network (LAN): Play on the same network. One player hosts a world, and others join from their devices on the same network. Minecraft Servers: Join public or private servers. These are hosted independently and often offer various gameplay modes and communities. Server hosting might require technical knowledge and setup. Minecraft: Bedrock Edition: Using Xbox Live/Microsoft account, invite your friends to your hosted world. The downside is, just like LAN, only the host needs to be online. Third-Party Hosting: Pay for and set up your own server, which is a more hands-on approach. 10. Is there a player limit on Minecraft Realms? Yes, there is. Standard Realms usually allows the owner and 2 additional players to play on the Realm simultaneously. Realms Plus has a higher limit, allowing the owner and 10 additional players to play concurrently. [>] Heres a link to the servers patron page where you can see posts made by the server owner and player. Each District has a building requirement, you must build according to the district you chose, you are more than welcome to build in more than one district. Spawn is the central hub to access each district. One of the district is the Market District, this is where you can build your own stand/store to sell/trade. There is also a mall that I've created, with a mixture of different stores. The currency system is XP. You purchase items using XP. There is also a bank in the mall to trade emerald, iron, gold and diamonds for xp and vice versa. Another district is the Gaming District, this is where games and events will be held where you can win prizes. This district is still under construction. My plan is to have mini games and have several Colosseum to hold the games and events. Spawn, the individual portals in each district and the mall at the market district are set to adventure mode to protect the build from griefing. Trutopia will be open to anyone who wants to join. I'm trying to target older players, but I'll be open to anyone who's willing to build, have fun and must be active players.
