

I'm not robot!

Flesh, the omophagea inside your body transmitting the gained information to your brain as a set of memories or experiences. What this can reveal is at the discretion of the GM. Your unarmed strikes deal 1d4 bludgeoning damage. You produce a blinding spittle able to temporarily deprive foes of their vision. As a bonus action, you spit your corrosive saliva at a creature within 15 feet. It makes a Constitution saving throw (DC 8 + your proficiency bonus + your Constitution modifier) or is blind until the end of your next turn. You gain proficiency with simple, martial, and extremis weapons as well as all armor and shields. SQUATS I know they aren't really a major thing in the IP anymore but I love me some space dwarves. Use the regular statistics for dwarves, adding these additional benefits: Your Intelligence score increases by 2 and your maximum increases to 22. You gain proficiency with Technology and have advantage on checks made to analyze, build, engineer, repair, and sabotage technological devices. You gain proficiency with technological vehicles (be they for air, land, outer space, or water). You gain the Touch of Fate feature. TAU The tau are a race of technologically-advanced xenos from the fringes of space, an entire empire devoted to the Greater Good. GMs with a party that have more than one tau should create subtypes to represent various societal casts, but otherwise treat them as (fire tau that are statistically identical to) regular humans with the following benefits: You gain proficiency with Technology. You have advantage on saving throws against spells. You gain the Touch of Fate feature. You barely register in the Warp and cannot take the Psyker feat or any psyker archetypes. For kroot, genestealers, and other xenos, consult your GM and beware the Inquisition! CHARACTER BACKGROUNDS All humans should use the backgrounds available to regular characters as well as those found in the Book of Exalted Darkness (including that free Evil Primer PDF particularly for chaos folks!), Hypercorps 2099 5E, and 2099 Wasteland as appropriate. If you dig around on my website, you will little bits scattered here and there. If your character is already all about the Warp, make sure to twist your background into something appropriately maddening and evil. Otherwise a human should probably be either very much pragmatic (PS: got a Pragmatist background in Mists of Akuma ☺ ) or very devout. If you are xenos, chances are good you'll have the best luck in 2099 Wasteland although again, with a bit of tweaking many of the standard backgrounds should suit you fine. As mentioned above, space marines are going to overshadow unaugmented characters so for any PC that isn't a space marine, an ork, or taking the Cog-Born background, give out two character backgrounds to help even out the playing field a bit. Cog-Born Either identified from scholam in your youth and brought into the fold of the Mechanicum, saved from slavery in the hold of a chaos warship, chosen by the Dark Mechanicum's probability machines, trained by xenos scientists, or otherwise led to learning how to assuage the spirits of the machine (or if you're a stout, you know, understanding how machines work). Skill Proficiencies: Science, Technology Tool Proficiencies: Alchemist's supplies, thieves' tools, tinker's tools Equipment: Alchemist's supplies, thieves' tools, tinker's tools Feature: Coax the Machine Spirit. You have learned enough about the workings of technology that you can improvise the use of items even when they are not intended for you. You ignore all class, race, and level requirements on the use of technology (except for extremis weapons and power armors). Space Marine Backgrounds You only get a single proficiency or feature because you've got enough goodies already. :p Also for whatever godawful reason, Games Workshops doesn't have lady space marines. I say f#%^ that-if you want to play a female Adeptus Astartes, do it. Assume that the Lost Primarchs are DAUGHTERS instead of sons (! my word!) and that they have been in deep space, written from history for fear of the singular ability that sets them apart from their male kin: reproducing Adeptus Astartes far more rapidly than any chapter of battle brothers ever could. One chapter is oriented towards Chaos and the other chapter remains true to the Imperium. As an extra f#@$-you to misogynists, you get proficiency in one skill and two tool kits of your choice for playing a lady space marine. CHAOS SPACE MARINE BACKGROUNDS Alpha Legion: Deception proficiency Death Guard: poison immunity Emperor's Children: thunder resistance Iron Warriors: Investigation proficiency Night Lords: Stealth proficiency Sons of Horus: Persuasion proficiency Thousand Sons: Arcana proficiency Word Bearers: Religion proficiency World Eaters: Intimidation proficiency IMPERIUM SPACE MARINE BACKGROUNDS Blood Angels: natural weapon bite attack (1d4) Dark Angels: Survival proficiency Imperial Fists: Insight proficiency Iron Hands: Technology proficiency Raven Guard: Stealth proficiency Salamanders: deal an additional 1 point of damage per die when dealing fire damage Space Wolves: Advantage on smell-based Perception checks Ultramarines: History proficiency White Scars: Vehicle (land) proficiency FEAT: Psyker Prerequisites: Wisdom 16 or Charisma 16 You are able to call upon the powers of the Warp. Whether through training by Imperium-sanctioned psykers or through the manipulations of daemons, you wield what some call sorcery or magic, using it to perform tasks that defy belief. You are able to take a psyker archetype. You have advantage on checks and saving throws to resist increasing your Corruption score. You learn one cantrip from any spell list, using either your Wisdom or Charisma (whichever is highest) as your spellcasting ability score. You learn one 1st-level spell from any spell list, using either your Wisdom or Charisma (whichever is highest) as your spellcasting ability score. You are able to cast this spell a number of times equal to your proficiency bonus before requiring a short rest to recharge the use of this feature. CHAOS CLASS ARCHETYPES In the months to come there are going to be a lot of archetypes, almost all of which are focused on playing as a faithful servant of the Imperium of Mankind. At the GM's discretion, these can be tweaked and modified for playing a character devoted to the Warp instead, gaining dark gifts of Chaos that work the same way as the written ability but represented by a gruesome mutation or unholy relic rather than Imperial training or advanced technology. END OF HACK #1 There's more ground to be covered yet but this should be enough to take the given core rules of Dungeons & Dragons 5th Edition into the grim, dark future of Warhammer 40,000. In the next post I'm going to dig into weapons, power armor, and other equipment. Then it's onto class archetypes where each post will have an option for space marines and something for non-space marines (for 7 posts), and after that there'll be 9 paired monsters posts. For the 20th post (because Enuncia is close to my heart and deserves a post of its own, mostly because I can't think of a specific one it ought to be with-and I can drop in the random sidebar-esque material in there) I'll share the big google document where all the content is efficiently organized, improved via feedback from folks, and super accessible. Thanks for checking this out! @ (MIKE WHAT ABOUT STARFINDER — I just got my dev copy and am gleefully reading it. That hack will definitely include the Starfinder conversion of Hyper Score so I need some time to work it out. Don't worry, it'll get here. ☺ )
