Mike Palmquist is a leading expert in teaching writing and computer-supported writing instruction at Colorado State University. He directs university-wide initiatives to improve learning and teaching in face-to-face, blended, and distance courses. As a professor of English, he is recognized nationally for his innovative work on designing web-based instructional materials to support writing. His notable projects include Writing@CSU, an open-access website for writers and instructors, and the WAC Clearinghouse, a leading site for communication across the curriculum. Palmquist has authored numerous articles and essays on writing, technology, and teaching methods, and has received several awards for his contributions to the field, including the Charles Moran Award and Outstanding Technology Innovator recognition from the CCCC Committee on Computers in Composition and Communication.
